September 12, 2025 There are no other marathon runners in the world who run marathons who are living with HIV + brain cancer. This is the only marathon on World AIDS Day in North America to honor the memory and loss of 43,000,000 souls who died from AIDS

RE: World AIDS Marathon + 5 orphan dinner dances + medical care for orphans + events for special needs kids + concert
 Dear Radio Station Manager:

On World AIDS Day, Dec 1, 2025 (Monday, 4 days after Thanksgiving) the Richard M. Brodsky Foundation, a 501(c) (3) public charity will sponsor its 19th World AIDS Marathon, half marathon, 10K & 5K on the Rockaway boardwalk in Queens, NY. Proceeds from this event will fund the Foundation’s work in Kenya & America. Our team will visit Kenya from Dec 5 - 14 to provide medical care for 1,200 – 1,400 orphans at 5 orphan dinner dances, two days of art, music & dancing for special needs kids + a running Event + CONCERT. Our mission is to improve the lives of people living w/ HIV in Kenya. Proceeds will also benefit Harmony HealthCare Long Island, local medical organizations, + Campaign Against Hunger + $500, $400 & $300 to non-profits for 3 teams who recruit the most registrants with respect to registration fees.

Since 2004, the Brodsky Foundation, with your help, has donated $629,000+ in goods & services for helping people, especially children living with HIV or cancer, in Africa & America. Donations have also funded 57 festive orphan dinner dances for 14,799 Kenyan orphans, AIDS & cancer research, free concerts, 22 local 5K running events (4 were free), toys for children living with HIV and/or cancer & toiletry/gift items for people living with HIV or cancer on Long Island.

In addition, medical care and in many cases lifesaving treatment has been provided for 3,500 orphans treated at the orphan dinner dances since 2011. Placing a value on this work is not plausible. 3,500+ people were tested for the AIDS virus at the World AIDS Marathon since 2006. One of the groups tested reported HIV+ results in 28%, while on Long Island, the comparable rate was 1%.

Why I started the Foundation back in 2004? I was diagnosed HIV+ in 1997. In 2002, I was diagnosed with brain cancer and given 2 – 4 years to live. I promised my wife Jodi that if I survived cancer with her help, I would do everything I could to help people, especially children, living with HIV or cancer. There are still 630,000 people dying from AIDS every year. I recently turned 73 years young and ran my fastest marathon in the past 22 months. I think that people, even those living with HIV and cancer, can reverse their aging process if they lead a healthy lifestyle. On October 10, 2021, I finished the Mohawk-Hudson Marathon in 04:17:13 which qualified me, a proud grampa of 4, to run my 2nd Boston Marathon in 2023 at age 70!

For people living with HIV or cancer: exercise, eat healthy, don’t smoke or drink alcohol, and never have unsafe sex if you and your partner are not committed to a monogamous relationship. To government, business and society, “people living with so-called fatal illnesses can lead healthier productive lives if we have affordable access to doctors and medicine.”

For the following donations, sponsors will receive: $50, the book, Richard Brodsky’s Journey of Hope; $100, your names will appear on Event T-shirt; $200, your logo and link to your website will appear on the World AIDS Marathon website plus 2 t-shirts; $500, co-sponsor an orphan dinner dance for 250+ orphans, and receive all promotional benefits as smaller donor categories. Certificates of Appreciation for the World AIDS Marathon + events in Kenya will be sent to anyone donating $25+. Kindly complete the attached sponsorship card and return as noted. Cash donations should be received by Nov. 12th with your logo.

People in our very own and global communities are counting on you and me to make a difference in their lives. Please join me in my fight against AIDS and cancer. Thank you on behalf of all people afflicted with HIV & cancer.

Very Truly Yours,

Richard M. Brodsky Foundation's Mission: To improve the lives of people, especially children, living with HIV & cancer in Africa & America + raise awareness that 2/3 of the people dying from AIDS live in sub-Saharan Africa. A LACK OF DOCTORS, MEDICINE, AFFORDABLE HEALTHCARE, EDUCATION, CLEAN DRINKING WATER & NUTRITIOUS FOOD COMBINED WITH AN ABUNDANCE OF POVERTY, HUNGER, MALARIA & TUBERCULOSIS is the reason why 1 child in 37 will die before they are 5, as per UNICEF, and one of the leading causes of death is hunger.

A story of everything that Kisumu, Kenya has to offer: it's animals, artists, dancers and singers + its vibrant fishing economy bordering Lake Victoria and Kenya's incomparable runners.

Kisumu/Dunga/Kenya needs a sister city... NYC/Rockaway?

Kenya has some incredibly talented runners, musicians, singers, dancers, artists and is surrounded by Lake Victoria. The Kisumu Impala Sanctuary faces Lake Victoria; a five-minute drive from Kisumu and is at the beginning of Dunga. The video showcases Dunga through music videos with slides of Kenyan artists and even animals participating in a 5K AIDS fun run + a day at JIU PACHI where orphans dine, dance and are examined by doctors. My wish is for a cultural bridge between USA and Kenya with a pavilion in the Rockaways where Kenyans could sell their paintings, jewelry, clothing, and wood carvings; Kenyan musicians could have a venue to perform; a playground & communal bar b que area; and a fish market where fresh fish could be sold & cooked from Jamaica Bay; + a small museum/theatre which could showcase videos of Dunga and the Rockaways; and residents of the Rockaways would want to travel to Dunga. <https://youtu.be/AfjSVJ4h49E>. https://youtu.be/ivkEbq_wy5o.

The Richard M. Brodsky Foundation's Mission Statement is heartwarming in many ways: To improve the lives of people, especially children, living with HIV and cancer in America and to raise awareness that 2/3 of the people dying from AIDS live in sub-Saharan Africa. Join us for 19th annual World AIDS Marathon, meet & greet dinner, 5 orphan dinner dances, 2 days of music & dancing + art workshops + lunch & snacks for special needs kids + a 5K running Event to honor the lives of 43,000,000+ people who have died from AIDS.

A LACK of DOCTORS, MEDICINE, AFFORDABLE HEALTHCARE, EDUCATION, CLEAN DRINKING WATER & NUTRITIOUS FOOD COMBINED with an ABUNDANCE of POVERTY, HUNGER, MALARIA & TUBERCULOSIS is the reason 1 child in 27 will die before his or her 5th birthday. According to UNICEF, the leading causes of childhood death are poor or nonexistent medical care, malnutrition, and hunger. To conclude, the Richard M. Brodsky Foundation has sponsored and provided for the following groundbreaking projects:

- Co-sponsored with Kenyan partners or sponsored 15 World AIDS Marathons in Kisumu, Kenya + 4 in Rockaway, NY
 - 57 festive orphan dances for 14,799 Kenyan orphans since 2006
 - Concert in Kenya in 2006 + meals, lodging, and transportation for 50 Kenyan runners

 - 12 children's walks for 3,200 children

 - 1,730 pounds of clothing, $3,600 of clothing + books, and 580 pair of kids shoes
 - $2,000 which was enough money for groundbreaking for a 60-bed orphanage in Nakuru, Kenya.

Richard Brodsky's advice on how to beat life-threatening illnesses

DANCE, LAUGH, SMILE, AND PARTY LIKE THERE IS NO TOMORROW, AND BE SILLY - Almost every Saturday night my wife Jodi and I go dancing. We laugh and smile easily. Recently my kids said I'm great relating to my grandkids. I get down to their level and act silly. 4- and 6-year-old kids are always being told what to do so if they can have power over grampa, it is a good thing. It all started when I took a candy bar out of a bag that had 20 assorted candy bars, and I did not ask my granddaughters for permission. I explained to them that I was invited to Ben's (a 5-year-old) birthday party but could not make it and it even says Ben on the bag, and this was my goody bag. My grandkids disagreed and kept threatening me that they would tell my daughter. I promised not to do it again if they didn't report me because I won't be allowed to visit again. It is just a silly game, and this is what they say when they see me first thing in the morning. "I'm going to tell mommy."

FIND A HOBBY THAT INTERESTS YOU - Find your creative side: Sing; write poems or lyrics for songs; act; dance; advocate; paint; design clothing; read; research or be part of a research study; review books, movies, restaurants, hotels, museums; cook or bake; write books or videos or articles to local newspapers; or choose a sport to coach, referee, or participate. You know what's next...

... RUNNING MARATHONS HAS SAVED MY LIFE, I'M NOT SUGGESTING YOU RUN A MARATHON - First consult with your doctor if this can work for you: day 1, run 100 feet and then walk until you reach a mile. Increase your run by 100 feet/day and walk until you reach a mile. In 53 days, you will have run a mile. Day 54, run a mile, then run 100 feet and then walk until you reach two miles. Day 107, run 2 miles and 100 feet and then walk until your reach 3 miles; increase your run by 100 feet/day and by day 159 you will be running 3 miles. Make sure you have good walking and running shoes, best to visit a local running store. You are now ready to run your first 5K which is 3.1 miles. If you could not run 3 miles and had to walk during the 159-day training period, you can always run/walk the 5K. There are local running clubs where you can run or walk with new friends for free

BE KIND, LOVING, FORGIVING AND NON-JUDGMENTAL - We've all been hurt in life, but if the person who hurt you asks for forgiveness, it is much healthier for you to forgive. Staying mad can only cause stress. We've all made mistakes and upbringings, and life's situations can change people's perceptions on what is acceptable behavior.

HELP OTHERS IN NEEDS; YOUR SITUATION IN LIFE COULD ALWAYS BE WORSE - Make someone smile, buy a cup of coffee for a stranger, even if it is once a month, help someone elderly cross the street, say thank you and give compliments more often, help a child learn to spell or read, reconnect with family and friends. I recently witnessed two cousins whose parents had a disagreement 45 years ago reconnect and they both realized they wasted 45 years.

THERE IS SO MUCH JOY IN THE WORLD EXCEPT I GET TERRIBLY SEASICK - My hobby is tracking my friend Maryanne and her husband Kyle sail around the world and watch their progress every day. I travel vicariously through them and have visited hundreds of atolls, archipelagos, and places I could never visit. Many of you know how much I love going to Kenya. I thought I would take Jodi on a romantic boar ride in Lake Victoria. We paid for a 90-minute boat ride; in 20 minutes I was thrilled to be back on land.

ASK YOURSELF, HOW WOULD YOU LIKE PEOPLE TO HELP YOU - Could you use a meal or a ride to a doctor? Or how about a visit from a friend or an enjoyable book to read, or just a special snack, a card or how about a fresh baked bread or cake?

VOLUNTEER AND CONNECT WITH OTHERS - Volunteer at local schools, libraries, places of worship, civic clubs, fairs, museums, food pantries, health or running events, your alumnus, fraternity or sorority, community center, local charitable organizations, or holiday events. If you have computer skills, you can help organizations anyplace in America or around the world. We are so blessed to be living in America. Third world countries have so little. Poverty, hunger, clean drinking water, AIDS, malaria, infant mortality, medical care, orphaned children, a lack of education, droughts, floods, etc. We have problems in America but at least we have safety nets where our government helps. This especially applies to kids with special needs where programs don't exist in Africa.

MY PERSONAL SECRETS: - I'm not a brain surgeon or rocket scientist but this works for me. I'm HIV+ since 1997 and was diagnosed with terminal brain cancer in 2002. I was determined to beat HIV and that was a much more serious illness back in 1997. A year later I ran my fastest marathon: 3:23:23 at age 45. In 2002, I was doing a book signing at Barnes & Noble in Greenwich Village and had a seizure, broke my shoulder, and was diagnosed with terminal brain cancer and doctors told me I could expect to live 2 - 4 years. I was determined to beat brain cancer. After shoulder surgery, I started running a quarter mile every day for a week and each week I increased my run a quarter of a mile/day. I ran the NYC Marathon a year and a day after my seizure. I felt good knowing that I was running for everyone living with HIV and brain cancer. My brain oncologist, Dr. Casilda Balmaceda even finished the marathon with me. She suggested I start a Foundation to help others living with HIV and cancer; I took her advice.

Prior to my brain cancer diagnosis, running one marathon a year was my routine. I realized I had to step up my game if I was to survive so running multiple marathons would be my new goal. I get a lot more energy knowing I am not only offering hope to people living with HIV and cancer, but we have also been able to feed 14,799+ orphan in Kenya and provide medical care for 3,500 Kenyan orphans. We are also helping people living with HIV and cancer in America, especially kids, more recently special needs kids in Kenya. All I have to do is keep running marathons and hope that generous donors like you can support my work. It does not get easier to run marathons as you grow older and sports massages are not a luxury, but a necessity. Goals are important and besides planning trips to Kenya for the next 28 years, 28 years of 5K AIDS Cancer Run Walks in Baldwin Park and sponsoring a World AIDS Marathon every year on World AIDS Day. WHO: RICHARD BRODSKY
WHAT: RUNS THE MARATHON
WHERE: NEW YORK CITY
WHEN: 11.02.03

A year before lacing up for last November's run, HIVer and architect-turned-author Richard Brodsky, 51, collapsed at his book signing. An avid marathon man, he seemed to have hit a wall: a cancerous brain tumor, unrelated to HIV. POZ caught up with Brodsky back at the starting line to see if he could bring home the gold.

I'd run marathons annually since 1992, so I was ecstatic to be returning after my seizure. I'd run my fastest one while positive in '98, but now I had a bad shoulder break from the seizure. I knew that physically this would be my hardest race ever. But I had to finish, to prove that HIVers can lead healthy, productive lives.

Finding out I was HIV positive was the worst day of my life. I had to tell my wife, Jodi, that I was unfaithful, bisexual and positive. She never wavered

"My brain said, 'I don't care how much pain you're in. Your job is to finish.'" in her decision to stick by me—we love each other, we have three children and we run marathons together (at our own pace). She's also helped with my treatment. My cancer is more serious than my HIV—surgery and radiation have rid 95 percent of the tumor, although some cancer cells remain in my brain. Running is therapeutic, too—it eases my headaches. Luckily, I've been able to promote my first book [Jodi, The Greatest Love Story Ever Told] and work on my second.

About 18 miles into the marathon, I asked myself, "Why am I doing this?" My shoulder went numb and my legs felt as if they had nothing left. My brain had to tell my body, "I don't care how much pain you are experiencing, your job is to finish." Then my oncologist, Casilda Balmaceda, joined me for the last mile and a half. I got a spurt of energy near the finish line, where people called out my name on my shirt and I was able to sprint past most of the runners. My time: 4:52. I felt like an Olympic athlete. —as told to Josh Sparber

Richard and Jodi Brodsky have been sponsoring World Aids Marathons since 2004.

"I don't fit the profile of a typical marathoner," the Atlantic Beach resident admits. "But running gives me the strength and the energy I need to feel good and help others."

For nearly the past two decades, Brodsky and his wife, Jodi, have sponsored 17 marathons through their nonprofit foundation in an effort to raise funds that will help prevent the spread of cancer and HIV

Their 5K summer runs on Long Island attract hundreds of participants each year while their winter World Aids Marathons have yielded more than a half million dollars since their first event in 2004.

"From the beginning, we really wanted to raise awareness about the effect AIDS was having on millions of people globally, especially in Third World countries," said Brodsky.

To that end, the husband and wife team set out to help the citizens of Kenya, a country then ravaged by the HIV epidemic. They hosted their first AIDS marathon there 18 years ago and have returned almost every year since.

G-d Answers Richard Brodsky

G-D answers HIV-positive, brain cancer survivor, marathon-running author of: Jodi, The Greatest Love Story Ever Told, (by Richard M. Brodsky)

Stopping at a drugstore to pick up some meds, I learned from the pharmacist that one prescription could not be filled for twenty-five years. I told the pharmacist that having the prescription filled was very important to me and I suggested that he put it through the system as an override. He looked at the prescription and was shocked to find my request for a conversation with G-d. A look of dismay crossed the pharmacist's face as he resubmitted the prescription. A computer snafu occurred and a second or two later the pharmacist handed me a small vial with a piece of paper inside. I thanked the pharmacist and proceeded to open the vial as I headed to the exit. The message inside read, "Okay, Richard, you have just one question." I exited the store and looked upward and implored, "WHY ME?"

"WHY NOT?" G-d countered as He explained He's getting old and tired and even He is not perfect. He realizes He's made mistakes and the really big ones He's managed to correct. "Dinosaurs..." He claimed, "...those were my biggest mistakes. I did manage to expel them from the planet. Flowers, there I have succeeded admirably. You could not find a human being designing such a variety of colors, textures, fragrances and general layout of a flower from its petals to how the flower opens itself up to the world. I screwed up on roses. They were never supposed to have thorns. But if everything were perfect down there nobody would look forward to keeping me company in the Afterward. Richard, as far as giving you HIV and brain cancer, we did have a computer glitch up here. All this business of pray to G-d, ask G-d's repentance, may G-d keep me in his good graces and on and on. I told you I'm getting old and I could not function without a computer. I'm actually surprised you people down there took so long to develop a computer. I gave you Galileo, DaVinci, Edison...you guys are centuries late. Richard, you were not supposed to get these two fatal illnesses. I was undecided between a few of my favorite earthly religious leaders who were much respected on Earth. People would take them more seriously than you. Next thing I know, the computer freezes and in a flash your name is the one selected to receive HIV and brain cancer. I could not exactly change what had already happened. We do rest up here and whoever talked about resting a day, a week, that doesn't cut it up here. A day or week may be fine but every fifty or so years we need a month, a year or years of rest. I slept through the Hitler years and I rested too long during the early years of AIDS. Besides, giving this illness to you as opposed to a religious leader might prove to be more interesting."

It was then that the vial vanished and I looked up to the sky as the sun poked through from behind the clouds.

What a glorious sunrise...

We Ran for Bet Elazraki Children's Home!

THANK YOU, Iris & Shalom Maidenbaum, for your very generous donation to Emunah Bet Elazraki, and for inviting us to run the 2016 Jerusalem Marathon for Bet Elazraki Children's Home in Natanya, Israel.

I'M RICHARD BRODSKY, President of the Richard M. Brodsky Foundation, a 501(c) (3) public charity. I'm HIV+ since 1997, a brain cancer survivor since 2002, and a marathon runner for life.

As a dad living with HIV and brain cancer I know I'm blessed to be alive and share in the joy of my daughters' triumphs and accomplishments. But what about the children whose parents cannot share their lives? In Israel, there is a home, Emunah Bet Elazraki (www.elazraki.org), where children can be loved, nurtured, educated, and cared for throughout their lives.

My wife Jodi and I were granted the privilege of visiting the home and bringing toys to the children on March 16, 2016. The toys were donated by K.I.D.S./Fashion Delivers in conjunction with its partnership with the Richard M. Brodsky Foundation.

Emunah Magazine reported that we raised $52,000 for the children's home. Thank you, Carol Sufian, Executive Director of Emunah, and Yehuda Kohn, Director of Bet Elazraki, for all you did for this successful initiative.

Graphic design by Judy Harner

I WAS PLEASED to see that 150 out of the 250 children living at Bet Elazraki participated in running shorter distances at the Jerusalem Marathon, thanks to co-director Yehiam Sherlo.

Below is Yehuda Kohn, leader and director of Bet Elazraki Children's Home, who treats these kids as if they were his own. Scores of volunteers from all over the world come here to help let these children know they are loved. Please partner with us to make sure these children are not forgotten.

EMUNAH BET ELAZRAKI receives about two-thirds of its funding from the state of Israel for basic services. What makes this home special is the extra love and care bestowed on the children, thanks to private donations. They are tutored to excel in any walk of life they choose. Bar and bat mitzvahs, college, weddings—they can have it all. Much training and counseling goes into making these children whole.

When our team travels to Kenya every year, the 1st night we stay at the home of Channa & Dr. David Silverstein in Nairobi. David's memoir (a must read) is from America. He agreed to set up a cardiology unit in Kenya, 50+ years ago. David was the personal physician and friend of the former President of Kenya, Arap Daniel Moi and 42 years later gave the eulogy when Moi died at age 95. Moi trusted David's medical knowledge, treatment, and judgment and the two had many discussions about the Old Testament, Israel and medical research. Moi became an ardent supporter of Israel. At one point in the story, Moi was in his early to mid-90s and he was gravely ill. Moi's sons wanted to send him to Germany for the best medical care that was available. David suggested Tel Aviv because Moi would get better medical care and enjoy the spiritual experience. Moi definitely enjoyed the trip to Israel. My takeaway was what a mazel that a white, American, Jewish doctor was caring for a black Kenyan, Christian President. There are numerous stories throughout this book of how David never asked anything from Moi, yet Moi made decisions to help Israel. This would not have happened if Moi's doctor was not a white, American Jew. As can be expected, there was a major conflict when the Chief Justice of the Kenyan Supreme Court died while under David's care. Even though David never did anything wrong with respect to the Justice's care, there were many Kenyans upset that the Justice was not being cared for by a black, Christian Kenyan doctor. Channa, David's 2nd wife, turns out to be a joint heroine of the story by bringing a meaningful, loving, relationship into his life. LISTEN TO EULOGY

HOW THE FATHER OF CARDIOLOGY (AND A RUNNER, TOO) IN KENYA MADE A LASTING IMPACT ON THE POSITIVE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN ISRAEL & KENYA. You will identify with the cover!

Thank you Shalom Maidenbaum for sending my wife Jodi and me to run the 2016 Jerusalem Marathon. Emunah Bet Elazraki stated that we raised $52,000 for their Children's Home in Israel.
